Agenda Note for Vice Chancellors' Meet

At Gauhati University, 28th November 2022

1. NEP 2020 implementation roadmap

Considering the UGC draft framework on NEP 2020 and its related Govt. of Assam's notification from time to time, it is necessary to finalize the implementation roadmap of NEP 2020 in Assam. Under this circumstance, discussion may be taken to finalize the implementation process from next academic session of 2023-24.

Implementation roadmap requires a detailed process flow, timeline, and a list of suggestive immediate intervention/facilitations from Government's side. Through the discussions at the highest executive level of State Universities, comprehensive, practically feasible, and brief guidelines for implementation of NEP 2020 in the Higher Education sector of the state may be adopted. This should be supplemented by a timeline for various activities and milestones, so that homogeneous and simultaneous progress could be achieved across the HEIs in the state. As the Government of Assam shall have a pivotal role in many of the issues, the Vice Chancellors' discussion could enlist the immediate measures that are required to be adopted, planned, or facilitated from the Government's side in order to having a seamless implementation of NEP in the state's higher education system. This may include, but not limited to, the infrastructural facilitation, clustering of institutes for effectively establishing multidisciplinary academic eco-system in a localized geography, proper strategy and policy for resources mobility, facility creation for offering and delivering mandatory components of curriculum such as vocational, skill and holistic development etc.

2. Minimum Common framework for FYUGP (Four Year Under Graduate Programme)

NEP 2020 has clearly mentioned about the facilitation of right environment for inclusive and equitable quality education across the country. The courses that are going to offer by different higher education institutes (HEIs) should be compatible to each other. In this regard, it is necessary to have a common framework for all HEIs for the proposed four year undergraduate programme (FYUGP). It is noteworthy to mention that whether we should start the FYUGP with specific discipline at the very first semester or from the starting of fourth semester. A detailed discussion in this regard will help to have a structured common framework for FYUGP in the state of Assam.

Such a structure shall act as the Minimum Common Framework for the FYUGP, reflecting the objectives of the NEP 2022, and considering the UGC model curriculum. A minimum Common Framework shall only be the skeleton comprising of components, so that the overall structure of the FYUGP across the HEIs of Assam becomes homogeneous. This will facilitate uniformity in credit patterns, uniformity in discipline distribution, as well uniformity in the true sense of multidisciplinary. Uniformity is crucial for proper execution of NEP features like Credit Transfer, Multiple Entry-Exit, Equivalence of credentials for employment and vertical progression etc.

With the Minimum Common Framework, Universities shall have a foundation backbone to innovate and frame their own curriculum through autonomous statutory processes.

3. Credit and Grade system

In order to obtain a degree under the NEP 2020, a student has to earn a minimum credit point. And in this regard the draft of NEP 2020 issued by UGC has categorically mentioned the calculation of credit and grade points. Accordingly, a decision in this regard to follow the UGC guidelines for the credit and grade points needs to be taken.

Universities in the state shall be able to facilitate an unambiguous and standard system of Credits and Grades, based on the UGC guidelines, so that Inter Institutes transfers become easy, and comparison of credentials does not require separate evaluations. Student community shall be benefited greatly from such a system, and at the same time related administrative processes and governments' procedures for honoring credentials shall have enhanced simplicity.

4. Credit transfer

NEP 2020 framework is a student centric approach, which gives greater flexibility of choices among different disciplines with multiple entries and exists. As a result, it will be expected that a student may earn her/his degrees from different HEI with the minimum credit points that she/he have to earn. The transfer of credit from one HEI to another will be accommodated through the Academic Bank of Credit (ABC). It is important to note that a student will get her/his degree from that HEI from she/he earns higher percentage of credit. In this connection, a consensus is necessary among all HEIs.

Such a Higher or Minimum Percentage again needs to be defined quantitatively. Credit transfer should be allowed in two different aspects. One, to earn credits on specific specialized courses that may not be available in home institute, and second, to facilitate mobility in terms of place and time. Multiple entry and exit shall promote return to the curriculum at later stage, and this shall automatically demand adding earlier earned credits for vertically upper stages. But the question of offering a Degree on completion of all the requirements shall not depend on Completion of all the requirements of Credits, but also on where the student has earned the Credits. Which Institute shall confer the degree? This requires adoption of strategy and policy that should preferably be uniform in the state. Vice Chancellors may discuss and recommend a policy in this regards as to what shall be the Minimum Credit Requirements to be earned in the Institute that will confer the Degree. In other way, this will define the amount of credits that could be transferred from other institutes in a span of a degree.

5. Minimum Common Academic Calendar

A common Academic Calendar which contains the minimum structure of starting and ending of an academic session for FYUGP needs to be decided so that this will facilitate students to have the opportunity of multiple entries and exits and also the flexibility of earning credits from different HEI within a stipulated time frame.

Stages of Degree programmes and promotion of mobility shall demand synchronization of academic activities across the HEIs of the state. Students Internship, Industry and Social engagement for Project Works, acquiring Skills through outreach engagements etc shall require uniform timeline for Campus and Classroom/Examination engagements. If few structural homogeneities could be adopted among all the Universities in terms of the timeline of the Academic session activities, there shall be great flexibility and easiness. Such structural homogeneity may have included properly defined Uniform Academic Session with Starting and Ending of the Session, Duration- Starting-Ending of Odd and Even Semesters, Similar Semester/Winter/Summer break duration etc.

6. Adopting digital enablement

Digital tools, technologies, and applications have changed the way academics are planned, learned, delivered, and administered. In order to implement the NEP 2020 in an effective manner, digital enablement of various stages, activities, and resources must be expanded and practiced.

Creation of digital course repositories, resources and putting those in respective Universities' digital presence shall facilitate expansion of knowledge universe through unrestricted and encouraged sharing. Uniform presence of all the HEIs in the ABC (Academic Bank of Credits), and facilitating different mutual and inter-university processes through digital platforms shall effectively enhance the implementation and execution of NEP 2020.

7. Policy on self-financing course and recruitment of guest / contractual / tenure-track faculty

Considering the enhancement of student enrolment in HEIs and the requirement of infrastructure, it may be considered to allow for the introduction of self-finance and add-on courses by the individual HEIs and the required human resources for such self-finance course may be recruited as guest/contractual/tenure-track faculty through a reasonably uniform process of with a suitable uniform remuneration structure.

Government may adopt uniform/minimum structure of fees for Self-Financing courses particularly for Colleges. Government may also consider minimum salary structure for Contractual/Tenure-Track faculty positions against temporary vacant positions of Teaching staff in colleges to ensure quality education. Administrative process in this regard may be simplified and a structured and decentralized-empowered process to be in place in order to facilitate uninterrupted delivery of academics in the colleges in particular.

8. Common entrance Tests for UG and PG Admissions

At various levels and forums, including the Government, matter of unification of and simplification of Entrance Tests for both UG and PG levels has been raised. Whereas it is already a practice in case of engineering and medical, College and University admissions for both UG and PG in almost all other programmes are through discrete and individual entrance/selection process. For the benefit of the entire student community, to add enhanced simplicity to the admission process, a discussion may be initiated in the matter of common entrance test for UG and PG admissions in the state Universities and Colleges.

9. Decentralization of Syllabus Framing:

Syllabus framing is a very essential and serious component in academics, and critical to the quality assurance. In an affiliating structure, Universities play major and centralized role in framing syllabi for the curriculum the University offers. Representations from affiliated Institutes are also included in the process as members of the board of studies or syllabus preparation committee. Whereas involvement and exposure to this process is automatic for the faculty members in the University department, not all the faculty members and institutes in the affiliating structure are involved in the process. This has resulted a natural lesser-exposure of the colleges to the entire process of syllabus framing.

Implementation of NEP 2020 shall demand complete academic expertise at the level of degree offering institutes over a period of time in coming years. This shall pose a serious challenge to handle the gap of expertise-requirement in curriculum detailing and syllabus framing. Curriculum detailing and syllabus framing requires expertise in credit assigning to chunk of content, appropriately handle the statics and dynamics of coverage in the domain, and suitable synchronization and innovations with contemporary knowledge paradigm. Universities may discuss in adopting a systematic and progressive strategic action plan and timeline for capacity building of the respective components in the affiliating structure, so that by the time the colleges or cluster of colleges need their own major role in curriculum detailing and syllabus framing, they become capable by acquiring expanded and adequate expertise.

World Zoonoses Day observed

STAFF REPORTER
CITY CORRESPONDENT

GUWAHATI, July 6: "As a part of the 'one world, one health initiative', veterinarians should work with people at the local, national and international levels to curb the spread of zoonotic diseases," observed the additional director of the State Animal Husbandry and Veterinary department Dr. Diju Bhuyan while inaugurating a programme organised on the occasion of World Zoonoses Day here today.

The programme was organised by the Assam Animal Husbandry and Veterinary Service Association (AAHVSA) in association with its Ramrup (Metro) branch at the premises of the Chetankanti veterinary hospital. This time, the theme of the day was 'Let's break the chain of zoonotic transmission'.

Addressing the event, Dr. Bhuyan suggested that the day should be observed more widely in rural areas of the State with the participation of the farmers.

The World Zoonoses Day is observed on July 6 every year to create awareness about zoonotic diseases. It may be mentioned that it was on this day way back in 1985 that the Rabies vaccine was administered for the first time by the great scientist Louis Pasteur. Zoonoses is the spread of infectious diseases from animals to human beings. Notably, around 75 per cent of new and existing diseases, affecting human civilisation across the globe, have originated from animals, including African sleeping sickness, anthrax, bird flu, ebola, diarrhoea, influenza, leprosy, nipah virus infection, rabies, swine influenza or swine flu, etc.

The function was moderated by AAHVSA general secretary Dr. Binhan Chandra Sarma while AAHVSA president Dr. Dandewar Debra delivered the welcome address.

On the same occasion, Just Be Friendly, an NGO working for animals, provided free anti-Rabies vaccination to cats and dogs simultaneously at 11 different locations across the State. The drive was conducted with the support of government authorities and private stakeholders at all the locations.

The Gauhati University also celebrated World Zoonoses Day today. As part of the celebration, a national webinar was organised by GU NSS Cell in association with Humane Society International, India.

Inaugurating the webinar, Professor Sweta Saran, Dean, School of Life Sciences, JNU, New Delhi said that zoonoses are infectious diseases caused by a pathogen that has jumped from an animal to a human like the present coronavirus disease.

Professor Saran said that since no particular medicine and therapy are available when a new zoonotic disease spreads, prevention and awareness are the best ways to stop it from spreading.

Attending the webinar as chief guest, Professor Birinchi Kr Das, VC, Bhattadev University said that the way society interacts with animals has serious implications for global human health. Professor Das urged all to take precautions while interacting with animals.

Dr. Ranjan Kr. Kakati, DSW and PC, GU NSS said, "The growing severity of Covid-19 is making us rethink ways to reduce transmission risk of emerging diseases from animals to humans." He urged everyone to keep a close watch on food habits.

Invited speakers Noyonika Gogoi and Swarnali Roy from Humane Society International, India spoke at length on human and animal health. The webinar was moderated by Dr. Samathur Roy, NSS PO, Gauhati Commerce College. About 250 participants from across the country comprising faculties, NGO executives, NSS volunteers and programme officers attended the webinar.
